What an audience favorite! This program is fun, thought provoking and really engages the participants. Kenny Ray delivers a very straight forward, poignant message about: courage, persistence and mental toughness. The audience members are challenged to look into their inner mirrors and ask themselves the following question; "Am I truly COMMITTED to my success and winning in life, or am I merely INVOLVED, just going through the motions?" Kenny Ray develops the theme that: In life, we are either a Cow or Rhino. Cows are fenced in, trapped in their own thin skin and is merely involved in survival. They "lead lives of quiet desperation", as Henry David Thoreau once said. On the other hand, Rhinos are committed, focused, thick skinned and roams free toward their goals, regardless of the adverse circumstances they face. They're always thriving and not just trying to survive. By program's end, everyone will be charging forward with the thick skin of a resilient, committed Rhino!
